

Which Products are a Good Fit for Me?

If you worked through the Getting Organized checklist I sent out a week or two ago, you have a pretty good idea of which areas in your life are working well, and which areas could use some work make them serve you and your family better. To help you decide whether the Conquer Your Clutter Super Bundle might be a beneficial resource for you, I've made this chart to give you an idea of which resources match up to which areas.

Area of Need	Resource(s)
general digital clutter (not on the checklist)	Not directly addressed, although there are guides for both Evernote and Dropbox, which can be helpful if you use those tools. (See this post if you need help organizing computer files.) The SaneBox trial bonus is related to email.
“stuff” clutter (not on the checklist)	Assessing: Home Organizing DIY Assessment Workbook Tackling: Chaos to Clutter-Free Freed from Clutter (e-course) Step-by-Step Decluttering 30 Day Guide to a Clean and Organized Home (actually several separate 30-day guides) 30 Days to An Organized Life
managing/helping your children (not on the checklist)	Routine Cards The Three Systems Every Family Needs
Calendar & Appointments	printables (if you choose not to use what you're already using)
To -do Lists/Task Lists	Mindspace Never-Ending To-Do List Spend Your Days
Household Cleaning/Maintenance Tasks	2017 Motivated Moms Chore Planner (done for you!)
Routines	2017 Motivated Moms Chore Planner Energy Budget Home Management for the Homeschool Mom (not only useful for homeschoolers) 5 Days to a Better Morning
Projects Goals	Organizing Life as Mom (partial) (This subject is not heavily addressed.)
Recipes Menu Plans Groceries Food Prep	Organizing Life as Mom (meal planning) Sanity Savers for Christian Moms (“) Meal Planning Made Easy The Printable Recipe Binder Kit The Ultimate Guide to Freezer Cooking printables
Health Records	not addressed (See this post for some excellent resource recommendations if this is your area of need.)

Important Documents Home Inventory Warranties Places to Go Random Ideas	not really addressed, though the printables may roughly cover some of them, and the Evernote guide may be helpful with random ideas
Storage	not really addressed
Cards and Gifts Holidays Gift Lists	2017 Thanksgiving Planner 2017 Christmas Planner
Vacation Plans	Wanderlist
Address Book/Rolodex	printables
Appliance Info Automobile Maintenance Info Mileage & Expenses	not really addressed, although possibly mixed in with some of the printables
Budget Bills & Taxes Financial Goals Debt Reduction Investments	2017 Budget Planner (printables) Spend Well Budgeting System (printables) BONUS: 4-month trial to You Need a Budget (YNAB) printables
Passwords Computer Info Computer Files Hobby Supplies	not really addressed, although possibly mixed in with some of the printables
Photos & Negatives	10 Steps to Organizing Photos and Memorabilia (note that this is for physical photos/memorabilia, not digital)
Garden Plans	“basic” gardening is not really addressed, although I highly recommend this. 2017 Homestead Management Printables (for more “farm-ish” tracking needs)
Prayer	Homeschool Mom Life Binder mixed in with other printables (but not heavily addressed)
Journaling	n/a
School Paperwork	Organizing for School Success Homeschool Mom Life Binder Home Management for the Homeschool Mom general paperwork-sorting resources
Extracurricular	printables
Home Business	not directly addressed, but some useful information mixed in with printables, budgeting information, and general paperwork-sorting resources

Emergency Info Emergency Plans	printables
Paper Flow	Paperwork: Sorted! The Sunday Basket

There may be some additional overlap; a handful of the resources cover a variety of topics and I may not have plugged them in everywhere they fit. However, if you're looking to really delve into a given area, these are the ones most likely to meet your immediate needs.